Litigant in Person Family Court Training V 20/02/26

You have requested to undertake 1-1 Family Court Training with Phil Kedge under The McKenzie Friend UK Network Ltd.

On making the payment, you declare that you have read, understood and agree to the following Terms and Conditions.

You understand that no aspect of the training consists of legal advice and that Philip Kedge, is not legally trained, is not a legal entity, and does not offer or provide any 'professional' legal or financial advice or service. The information provided is as 'layperson' and 'informed friend'.

You understand that none of the training videos or materials constitutes legal advice and is again presented from the perspective of a layperson.

You understand that the training is provided on the basis of you being a Litigant in Person. The training can incorporate and touch on elements of your own case, but any comparisons or discussions around the training and your own case does not constitute legal advice. You incorporate any elements of the training into your own case at your own discretion.

The training is designed to develop the understanding of a Litigant in Person with respect to the standard procedures of Private Family Court proceedings.

Terms for offering training, support, and guidance.

You understand and accept that as a McKenzie Friend or Litigant in Person, that Philip Kedge (Company Director) or the McKenzie Friend UK Network, hold no responsibility or liability with respect to your future management of your own family court case. You apply the training entirely at your own discretion and risk.

You accept that in researching or discussing any legal case law, no assurances can be given to the legal accuracy or correct legal interpretation of any information or legislation. You are solely responsible for your own interpretation of the legislation that you may consequently rely on. It is strongly advised that if ever in any doubt you seek legal advice through a Solicitor on such matters.

You accept that Philip Kedge (Company Director) or The McKenzie Friend Network is not liable to you in respect of any financial loss or any other loss whatsoever arising out of litigation proceedings associated with your own case as a Litigant in Person.

Confidentiality

During training, all information, circumstances, case papers and discussions are based on fictional scenarios and characters. Any discussions in relation to your own case will remain confidential.

Trigger Warning Content

You understand and accept that the training will include sensitive details around domestic abuse and will contain some graphic details and descriptions of domestic abuse and risk of harm.

Payment & Fees

You agree to pay the fees as stated at the time of requesting the training.

Refunds

The course fee once paid is non-refundable.

Access to Training Videos

Access to the training videos is via YouTube. In accessing the videos you agree to comply with the YouTube Terms and Conditions and any GDPR policy. You understand that you will need a Google Account to play the videos on your training account.
